EXTRADITION (APPLICATION TO CUSTOMS AND EXCISE) (JERSEY) ORDER 2011

THE MINISTER FOR HOME AFFAIRS, in pursuance of Article 119 of the Extradition \(Jersey\) Law 2004 orders as follows –

Commencement [see endnotes]

1 Interpretation

In this Order –

“assigned matter” has the same meaning as in the Customs and Excise \(Jersey\) Law 1999;

“customs office” means a place for the time being occupied by one or more customs officers for the purposes of their functions;

“customs officer” has the same meaning as “officer” in the Customs and Excise \(Jersey\) Law 1999;

“Law” means the Extradition \(Jersey\) Law 2004.

2 Transfers of detained persons between customs and police and vice versa

(1) Nothing in this Order, or in the application of the Law under this Order, prevents a detained person from being transferred from customs detention to police detention or vice versa.

(2) For the purposes of this Article, a person is in customs detention if –

(a) he or she has been taken to a customs office after being arrested for an offence; or

(b) he or she is arrested at a customs office after attending voluntarily at the office or accompanying a customs officer to it, and he or she is detained there, or is detained elsewhere, in the charge of a customs officer.

(3) For the purposes of this Article, “police detention” has the same meaning as in the Police Procedures and Criminal Evidence \(Jersey\) Law 2003.

3     Extradition (Jersey) Law 2004 applied to customs and excise with modifications

- (1) The provisions of the Law that are specified or referred to in Schedule 1 item 1 or 2 shall, to the extent that they are capable of such application, apply to customs officers in relation to the exercise of their functions as regards assigned matters.
- (2) The provisions of the Law that are specified or referred to in Schedule 1 item 1 or 3 shall, to the extent that they are capable of such application, apply to persons arrested by customs officers.
- (3) The provisions of the Law, in their application under paragraph (1) or (2), shall be subject to the modifications set out in Schedule 2.

4     Customs powers of seizure and retention

- (1) Where the Law gives a police officer power to seize and retain anything found upon a lawful search of premises, a customs officer shall have the same power upon a search of premises carried out by virtue of the powers applied by this Order notwithstanding that the thing found is not evidence of an offence in relation to an assigned matter.
- (2) Nothing in the application of the Law to customs officers shall be construed to prevent anything lawfully seized by a person under any enactment from being accepted and retained by a customs officer.

5     Citation

This Order may be cited as the Extradition (Application to Customs and Excise) (Jersey) Order 2011.
